

WAKE UP IN NEW LANARK
-Scotland's latest World Heritage Site

Robert Owen's revolutionary ideas put New Lanark on the world map.

Over 200 years ago the beautiful sandstone cotton mills of New Lanark were founded in a dramatic gorge in Southern Scotland, close to the famous Falls of Clyde. Soon the village became known all over the world because of the work of mill owner and social pioneer Robert Owen. In an age of cruel mill managers and 'dark satanic mills' he provided decent homes, fair wages, free health care, and a new education system for villagers, which included the first nursery school in the world.

Now in the care of an independent charity, New Lanark has pioneered a radical approach to heritage conservation. Once facing wholesale demolition and collapse, the village is now beautifully restored as a living, working community, where visitors are welcome to explore the award-winning Visitor Centre, and stay on business or for pleasure in the stunning New Lanark Mill Hotel. All the proceeds are used to help restore and revitalise the historic village, which was listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site in December 2001.

Inside the Visitor Centre, it is easy to imagine how people lived and worked in Owen's day, and you can explore all the attractions easily with one passport ticket. Highlights of any visit include the theatre show Annie McLeod's Story, where the ghost of a 10 year-old mill girl magically returns from 1820, and the New Millennium Experience ride, where you will time-travel with Harmony and discover Owen's vision of a better future. Other award-winning attractions include the Historic Classroom, the Saving New Lanark exhibition, the Interactive Sound & Light Gallery, Working textile machinery, 1820s and 1930s Millworkers' House, Village Store, and Robert Owen's House.

"What ideas individuals may attach to the term "Millennium" I know not; but I know that society may be formed so as to exist without crime, without poverty, with health greatly improved, with little, if any misery, and with intelligence and happiness increased a hundredfold; and no obstacle whatsoever intervenes at this moment except ignorance to prevent such a state of society from becoming universal"

Robert Owen's Address to the Inhabitants of New Lanark, New Year's Day 1816.

The New Lanark Mill Hotel & self-catering Waterhouses

A unique development in the heart of New Lanark World Heritage Site, less than an hour from Edinburgh, Glasgow, Stirling and the Scottish Borders.

Surrounded by native woodland and close to the Falls of Clyde, the New Lanark Mill Hotel and self-catering cottages called the Waterhouses offer a unique opportunity to stay in Scotland's latest World Heritage Site

Originally an 18th century cotton mill, the hotel has been beautifully restored and imaginatively converted, keeping original features such as Georgian windows and barrel-vaulted ceilings. 38 spacious en-suite twin or double rooms provide fantastic views over the surrounding village and Wildlife Reserve. Five of the bedrooms have been specially adapted for use by guests in wheelchairs.

Perfect for families and those who prefer to cater for themselves, the Waterhouses are arched over the tail race of the mill, literally on the River Clyde. There are six two-bedroom cottages and two one-bedroom cottages. Each Waterhouse features a living room with dining area, a bathroom with bath and shower, and a fully fitted kitchen. The facilities of the New Lanark Mill Hotel are just yards away.

With Edinburgh, Glasgow, Stirling, Ayrshire and the Scottish Borders less than an hour's drive away, the hotel is a great base for exploring all the attractions in Central and Southern Scotland.

Using local Clyde Valley produce wherever possible, the hotel's restaurant is open for lunch and dinner every day.

Weddings and functions in the hotel are held in the Robert Owen Room, which can cater for up to 150 guests and commands fantastic views over the river. The village provides an unforgettable location for your ceremony and reception, and we have an experienced team to make sure that everything goes smoothly on your special day.

The World Heritage Site is also a popular venue for conferences and meetings. The peaceful riverside setting makes the village a fantastic location, away from the bustle of the office yet less than an hour from Edinburgh and Glasgow. With light and airy conference rooms offering space for up to 200 delegates, and the support of a dedicated conference organiser, our delegate packages can be easily tailored to meet your needs.

We look forward to welcoming you to this beautiful part of Scotland soon.
